

One of your pre-conference assignments was to gather feedback on your leadership skills from others. By considering the perceptions of trusted adults and/or friends and comparing it with yours, you will be able to set meaningful goals for the program and work to improve your leadership skills. We call this activity FUEL: Feedback for Understanding Emerging Leaders.

MENTOR ASSESSMENT

	Mentor Results	Mentor Results	Mentor Results	Mentor Results	Mentor Results	Total	Average
Creativity	4	3	3	3	3	16	3.20
Collaboration	4	4	4	4	4	20	4.00
Communication	4	3	4	4	4	19	3.80
Critical Thinking	4	4	4	4	4	20	4.00
Motivation	4	3	4	4	4	19	3.80

Comments:

1. Joel is a highly motivated student that puts forth his best effort on everything that he attempts. He is a self-starter and is highly motivated to learn.
2. Joel is an exemplary student who would be an asset in any program. As his English teacher, I have seen him grow so much simply because he is open to feedback and always tries to improve. Other students look up to him as a role model. He is a kind, intelligent gentleman which is rare to see.
3. He communicates as an adult. He uses email and always follows up accordingly.

SELF ASSESSMENT

	Self Results	Self Results Last Day
Creativity	3
Collaboration	2
Communication	3
Critical Thinking	4
Motivation	4

Comment: I am still becoming comfortable with working with others. I think this program would be a great experience to help me out with this problem.